The No. 32 team is heading to the annual western swing with high hopes and confidence. With this year new twist in Saskatoon, the Can-Am team has prepared twice harder as they will participate in two races on Wednesday at the Wyant Group Raceway. The Velocity Prairie Thunder Twin 100s presented by Bayer will be two separate events with points for each event awarded to the competitors.

Alex Labbé is one driver looking forward to returning to WGR. The St-Albert native driver scored a great 3rd finish at the track last season and will go for his second win of the season in the first of two 100-lap races at the fast .333-mile track.

“We practiced to a similar track 2 weeks ago allowing us to bring two fast cars,” says Labbé.” “Last year, we overcame 3 wrecks during the race. With a stronger team this year, I am ready to take on any obstacles, the Can-Am Ford Fusion will rise no matter what at the end of these races.”

No Time for Vacation

Three days alter, the Luxxur 300 will be held at the Edmonton International Raceway on Saturday. This busy schedule should bring a lot of actions and great racing as many new driver or joining the eighth event of thirteen.

“I am excited for the western swing,” says the No. 32 driver. “Many new faces register for these races, it’s an opportunity for us to upgrade our competition level. These two tracks are quite short meanwhile we should be over 20 cars fighting for the win which can only give an eventful show to the fans.”
